Keeping Industry Moving

Moveright International Ltd moved the world-famous "Flying Scotsman" locomotive from Bury to the National Railway Museum in York following its £1.6m overhaul.

This "Severn Trow" boat, which was restored at a cost of £250,000, was moved from the Ironbridge Gorge Museum to Bristol Docks. It measured 84ft long by 18ft wide. With a height just in excess of 16ft. In view of the extreme dimension, careful planning of the route from Telford to Bristol ensured that the movement was completed without incident.
